

Fraudulent Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) Products

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is issuing warning letters to firms for selling fraudulent products with claims to prevent, treat, mitigate, diagnose or cure coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19). We are actively monitoring for any firms marketing products with fraudulent COVID-19 prevention and treatment claims. The FDA is exercising its authority to protect consumers from firms selling unapproved products and making false or misleading claims, including, by pursuing warning letters, seizures, or injunctions against products and firms or individuals that violate the law.

An asterisk (*) under the table column "Corrective Status" indicates the firm's listed product(s) are no longer sold for the prevention, treatment, mitigation, diagnosis or cure of coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19). This status only concerns sale of the listed product(s) for the prevention, treatment, mitigation, diagnosis or cure of coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) and in no way indicates whether the listed products otherwise comply with the laws and regulations enforced by FDA. FDA will monitor all listed firms for recurrence of the conduct cited in the warning letters.
